

Magee retires as city school superintendent

BY TRACI BONNEY

Superintendent Robert Magee announced his retirement Monday at the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board meeting.

Central office staff member Dominica Favre said, "It was a bombshell to everybody in the room, including me."

School board president Linda Penrose commented, "When I opened the folder and read the letter, my heart fell. We're going to miss him."

"When I read that letter out loud, I looked around the room, and I could see tears in people's eyes."

"With Mr. Magee, the kids have had good leadership. He's been a fine example, someone to look up to. We're going to hate to see him go."

Magee's retirement is effective June 30. He has served in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school district for 36 years, beginning as a teacher and moving up to elementary school principal.

From there, he served as junior high, then high school principal, assistant superintendent, then superintendent since 1989.

"I decided to retire because I want to spend time with my family and pursue some other interests like fishing, hunting and reading."

"My wife and I have four children and seven grandchildren, and I'd like to spend some time spoiling my grandbabies."

Educated at the University of Southern Mississippi and the University of Mississippi, Magee has bachelor and master of science degrees in

Resignations, retirements top school board agenda

BY TRACI BONNEY

Personnel shakeups were the order of the evening at Monday's Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board meeting.

Superintendent Robert Magee and Bay Middle School Woody Alliston announced their retirements; athletic director Cleveland Williams was not included in administrator contract renewals; and Waveland teacher Teresa Browning resigned because her husband was transferred in his job to Laurel.

Amy Ladner was hired to replace Browning for the remainder of the school year.

A replacement for Alliston was not brought up at the meeting, but it is rumored that Magee unofficially announced at a principals' meeting Wednesday his plan to recommend high school assistant principal Gale McRaney for the position. The appointment must be approved by the school board before it is official.

The school board approved a request from the Bay High School senior class that graduation be held in the new auditorium this year.

Last year, a proposal to hold graduation there was opposed by the senior class.

The board agreed to honor the students' request, and to let senior class officers and school administrators work together each year in deciding where graduation will be.

The board approved the January 13 meeting minutes and January claims docket; accepted a bid to sell a stripped school bus to Willie Necaise Jr. for $116; and heard three agenda requestors, one concerning the seniors' graduation and two others addressing other student and personnel matters.

Former Kiln resident named director of Greater Orlando Aviation Authority

BY TRACI BONNEY

"Local boy makes good" stories are nothing new to newspapers, but it's not too often the reporter is told about someone in another state succeeding at something, and tipped off to that success story by a person in a third state.

Well, that's what happened in this case.

Stanford "Stan" Ladner, a former Bay St. Louis resident now in business in New York, called to report that a friend of his had been named executive director of the Greater Orlando Aviation Authority. That friend is Norman J. Glass, who has worked with the aviation authority for more than 20 years.

Glass, a Kiln native, was appointed to his new post earlier this month. He had retired from the aviation authority in 1986, but was asked to come out of retirement by the mayor of Orlando and other people.

"I've served in every capacity here since 1970," he stated during a telephone interview earlier this week. "I plan to serve as director until I retire at the end

Council gets start on city gaming ordinance

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council informally agreed on a foundation for a requested city-wide gaming ordinance after meeting with attorney Donald Rafferty in a Monday workshop.

Rafferty, the city's gaming attorney, gave the four councilmen present (John Wilkerson was out of town on other business) copies of a proposed outline for the ordinance.

According to the wording on the outline, the ordinance would regulate and restrict gaming, gambling, casinos, dockside gaming, gambling developments and developers, and the height, bulk, size and number of developments in Bay St. Louis.

The ordinance also would define the powers and duties of the developers, provide penalties for violations of those powers and duties; repeal conflict-of-interest ordinances; address taxation, emergency evacuation and financial disclosure; establish regulations concerning mooring and anchoring of vessels; and may also create a gaming district if the Council wishes to include provisions for one.

Rafferty's proposed outline has 21 articles that deal with

County school board hesitates on spending

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

In anticipation of state spending cuts in education, county school board members waived in all decisions of additional expenditures Monday.

From the placing of administrative salary increases on hold, to the approval of stationery purchases, board members questioned and contemplated every penny to be spent.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois said the expected cuts would decrease district funds by approximately $130,000. "I feel we are in good shape for the completion of this year," she said.

She added the state education department has advised the districts against adding new positions at this time.

Board member Carol Bustetter said she would still like to discuss the hiring of an attendance officer. "I feel the position would pay for itself, by increasing the ADA (average daily attendance, which directly affects funding)."

The board approved all recommendations for renewal of administrative contracts with the exception of transportation director Donald Hillman.

Rejecting the superintendent's recommendation for Hillman's contract renewal were District 2 member Cheryl Bennett and District 4 member Kay Sones. District 1 representative Frank Miller, who left the meeting prior to its completion, was absent for the vote.

Approved were the contracts of principals Donald North, Clementine "Tina" Williams,

Food safety seminar

Restaurateurs attend food safety seminar

Fifteen food managers and food employees attended a training session on 'Food Safety Is No Mystery,' directed by Tom Pope and Barbara Shedd, public health environmentalists and Darlene Underwood, Hancock County Cooperative Extension home economist.

The meeting was held at the Human Service Complex Jan.

Topics included were sanitation and personal hygiene, safe food preparation and safe cooling and reheating.

An important focus of the program was steps for protecting the public and to prevent the opportunity for the foodborne illness.

Safe food preparation is the result of both careful planning and good operating procedures that are implemented on a day-to-day basis," said Pope.

Food establishments present were Layne's, Diamondhead Supermarket and Deli, Dairy Queen of Waveland, Jitney Jungle and Deli, Donut Hole, Reef Enterprises and Mary's Eatery.

Main Street Market set for February 15

The Main Street Market is back after a "vacation" in January. The Market will start at 8 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot of Olde Towne Restaurant, 119 Main St.

Proceeds from booth rentals are used for the Main Street-Bay St. Louis project. The project has designated a portion of the funds for downtown streetscape plans that are being developed with the cooperation of county Extension agent Randy Smith.

Project manager Mike Cuevas said, "It is our goal to present a clean, attractive and safe downtown area for the residents of Bay St. Louis and its visitors. We support and cooperate with the beautification goals of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. The funds from the Main Street Market will help defray the expenses of blooming plants, the planting of mature trees in appropriate areas, and other amenities. We are working on creative, cost-effective ideas to reach our goals."

Of Saturday's market, Cuevas commented, "The Main Street Market is fun. We never know what we'll have to offer visitors. I'm sure vendors will offer Mardi Gras items, including throws. We have several antique and collectible dealers signed up. The public can expect a good assortment of bargains."

Information on booth rental is available from Olde Towne Restaurant, 467-5687.

Billeaud-Hearty to wed Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Hearty announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Krystal Lee Angel Hearty, to Ray A. Billeaud III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Billeaud Jr. of Kiln.

The prospective bride attends Hancock High School and is employed with National Supermarket.

Mr. Billeaud is a graduate of Hancock High School. He attended Phillips College and enlisted in the United States Air Force.

The couple will exchange wedding vows in a 6 p.m. ceremony Friday, February 14. A reception will follow at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Kiln at 7 p.m.

of next year.

"We've got the most beautiful airport in the world. I'm not bragging; we get that compliment from people from all over the world."

As executive director, Glass has charge over both the Orlando International and Orlando Executive airports. That's only fitting since Glass, during his tenure as facilities manager of the aviation authority (formerly the Aviation Department of the City of Orlando), was instrumental in acquiring 2,000 acres from the Air Force for the site of the current Orlando International Airport.

Orlando International ranks 18th in the nation and 28th in the world in passenger traffic.

Before working with the aviation authority, Glass was in the Air Force. He trained as a civil engineer and held positions in Headquarters Air Training Command, HQQR Technical Division.

For more than two years he was the director of planning and construction for the 3rd Air Division in Guam. Following transfer to Homestead Air Force Base as director of operations, maintenance and construction, Glass was assigned to the Tactical Air Command at Cannon Air Force Base as overseer of all construction and engineering.

From 1962 to 1968, he was director of engineering for the Orlando Air Force Base and served a tour of duty in Vietnam as director of planning, engineering and construction. He started with the City of Orlando after retiring from the Air Force.

Glass grew up in Kiln, attending school at Dedeaux, then Kiln, high schools. In 1946, he married Frances Saucier of Bay St. Louis. This year, they celebrate their 46th wedding anniversary.

Their local relatives include Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Boyd and Mrs. Anna Mae Geoffrey in Bay St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. Santo Saucier in Waveland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lyons and Mr. and Mrs. James Curet in Kiln.

Although Glass has been on the wing for many years, he hasn't forgotten his roots.

the listed issues in their various aspects. The councilmen discussed other issues that were not mentioned that they felt needed to be included.

Jim Thrifley brought up the need for an abandonment fund and asked Rafferty if it would be appropriate to add to the ordinance a requirement for a surety bond. The abandonment fund would give the City monies to remove any derelict structures should a developer abandon a site.

Rafferty said he needed to finish his research on surety bonds before he could give the Council an answer.

Charles Scianna stressed the importance of incorporating into the ordinance any appropriate information from the Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz/Economics Research Associates study contracted by the City. Scianna said that since the City had paid for the study, it needed to use it as much as possible.

Thrifley said he wants to see provisions in the ordinance governing gaming facility operating hours, capacities, fire plans, ordinance enforcement capabilities by the City, fees and taxes, site plan and operating plan requirements.

"I want to see us include as much as we can without interfering with the developer," he stated.

Scianna suggested incorporating definitions from the Mis-issippi Gaming Control Act of 1990 to make sure the City's definitions of terms are consistent with the State's.

Meeting spectator Tad Black asked if a provision should be included governing signage.

Clerk of council Mike Cuevas told him a sign ordinance will be included in the City's comprehensive zoning ordinance.

Thrifley commented after some further discussion, "I think this will give us a good start. I don't think we're at a point where we need to do this yesterday."

Mayor Edward Favre agreed, but said the City does need to address fees and taxes soon in order to be ahead of any license issuances from the state Gaming Commission. He said that can be handled in a separate ordinance which can be later incorporated into the gaming ordinance.

The Council set a workshop for 7 p.m. Monday to hear from Rafferty about progress on the ordinance and further discuss any concerns that may arise.

Choctaws open printing plant

The Mississippi Choctaws will mark "...another milestone on the road to self-determination," said Chief Philip Martin announcing opening and dedication ceremonies to be held at the tribe's newly acquired printing company, First American Printing and Direct Mail of Ocean Springs.

The 40-acre site, building and equipment, formerly known as Direct Mail Special-ists, was purchased through the U.S. Bankruptcy Court using a Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA)-guaranteed loan. The name has been changed under tribal ownership.

The board refused discussion on the current superintendent's pay scale, until Monday, saying, "Frank (Miller) needs to be present."

Bourgeois said, "You have all received letters from my attorney explaining my position and I would like to have this settled."

Bourgeois said she is asking the board increase the superintendent's salary scale, making it comparable to similar districts. "The money has been budgeted," she said.

The current superintendent's scale begins at $47,500 and increases by approximately $2,000 every year. The previous administrator left office making $59,500, which was budgeted for the superintendent's salary this year.

Since January, Bourgeois has been questioning the legal right of the board to reduce the superintendent's salary since the office is an elected position.

In other business the board approved:

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The warm afternoons give many of us an itch to want to go fishing.

I tried a couple of times over the last two weekends with not much luck; just caught a few small perch.

The reports I have been receiving on saltwater fishing have not been too good, especially in inside waters.

As the water begins to get warmer, it shouldn't be too long before both fresh and saltwater fishing become productive.

I enjoy catching both fresh and saltwater fish; but, I am tending to lean more towards saltwater in recent years.

I guess it is like everything else, your tastes change from time to time.

I do know one thing, you cannot beat the taste of a freshwater catfish, in the five- to ten-pound size.

Good fishing to all.

Police dogs are becoming more and more popular with our local departments in fighting crime.

I guess the first time I witnessed dogs being used for security patrols was when I was in the Army.

Military police were accompanied by German shepherds patrolling the perimeter of the communications installation where I worked.

The latest local law enforcement agency to acquire dogs is the Hancock County Sheriff's office, which now has two.

They are being trained as drug dogs, and we are sure they will be getting a lot of use on special occasions.

Police dogs do a lot of things an officer cannot do, and they really help in law enforcement.

I recently read a story about one New Orleans police dog being stabbed, yet he did the job he was trained to do.

The article indicated the subject received a few bites in return from the dog, that was flushing him out from under a house.

I know dogs have a good sense of smell, yet, it always amazes me how they are able to sniff out drugs.

In addition to being 'man's best friend,' dogs are now an officer's best partner.

Delegation contacts secretary

U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor announced all five of Mississippi's House members have contacted Secretary of Energy Admiral James Watkins in a show of support of Richton salt dome being used as a Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) storage facility.

"My staff and I have been working diligently with the state's two U.S. Senators, House delegation and the state to get this project on-line," Taylor said. "I am pleased to finally see a united front. Our combined effort can and will make a difference."

The House delegation contacted Secretary of Energy Admiral James Watkins to request his assistance to insure that the Richton site would receive fair consideration during the selection process.

During the latter part of last year, the DOE added Richton to the list as one of the three finalists under consideration for the DOE's upcoming Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR) storage facility.

"It is only fair Richton was added to the list," Taylor said. "The two candidates in Louisiana are largely in a wetland environment while the Richton site would have much less of an environmental impact."

The project is expected to cost $1.3 billion, generate 200 full-time jobs and create nearly 900 jobs during the construction phase.

State's worsening financial problems overshadow other issues

The House of Representatives plowed through a diversity of bills in the past week ranging from county government to imposing certain conditions on passing new educational programs, but the state's worsening financial problems again overshadowed other issues.

General fund collections for January, as many had feared, dropped significantly below revenue estimates. Budget specialists warned the state now faces a major revenue shortfall of $75.7 million for the present fiscal year, and recommended a $115 million reduction in the revenue projection for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The Legislative Budget Committee called a meeting for Friday, Feb. 7, to review the gloomy outlook and possibly cut back its official revenue estimates accordingly. There were strong indications the revenue shortfall would force the Governor to order new budget cuts for hard-pressed state agencies and programs.

Despite the budget woes, the past week brought an increase in floor action in the House as the 1992 session entered its second month. Committees also continued working on a massive stack of bills introduced since the session began January 7.

Among the bills passed by the House was a proposal to prevent passage of costly new educational programs in the future without providing a way to fund the legislation. In effect, the bill says no legislation mandating a new educational program that requires additional funds will go into effect unless certain conditions are met.

An appropriation bill or other funding device must also be passed in the same legislative session to cover the costs, or the legislation must allow for local participation in funding with the financial responsibility on state, federal and local entities clearly defined.

Supporters said the intent was to protect local school districts and keep from passing expensive programs without saying where the money will come from to pay for them. Others endorsed the concept but voiced concern that the wording of the bill may be unclear or unworkable.

Voters in certain counties would get a chance to decide this fall if they want to stay under a county-unit system of road management or go back to some form of "beat" system under another bill passed by the House. Forty-six of the 82 counties now operate on a county-unit plan.

At present, the law prohibits a vote until 1995 on whether a county can come out of the county-unit plan. The House measure would let people vote this November on the matter instead of waiting three more years. It still requires that petitions be filed by at least 15 percent or 1,500 of the qualified voters for the election to be held. The bill makes no changes in laws mandating central purchasing in each county.

The bill prompted a lively debate before winning 93-28 approval. Some legislators argued more time should be allowed for the county-unit plan to prove itself. Others said the system simply doesn't work in some counties, maintaining it's too costly and hinders delivery of services to county residents. Backers said the bill's major thrust is to let people choose the system they prefer without waiting until 1995.

In other action, bills gaining House approval included measures to make certain revisions in exemption provisions of the commercial driver's license law, a move to meet federal requirements and avoid the possible loss of federal highway dollars; clarify a law on restitution and other compensation to crime victims to make sure payments don't go to anyone who becomes a victim while participating himself in a criminal act; and make it unlawful to hunt game animals or birds in Mississippi with a fully automatic weapon.

Among the guests visiting the House recently were Becky Coomes of Brandon, Mrs. Mississippi-America for 1991-92, and the Moss Point High School football team, winners of the 1991 Class 5A State Championship.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beachfront gambling opponents wish to preserve residential area

To the Editor:

Regrettably, several black people have, doubtless sincerely but mistakenly, tried to interject the race issue into the effort to locate gambling in the residential beach area at the Highway 90 bridge.

As some may know, I have opposed casinos, especially near homes, schools and churches of all races. I had to move here from Jackson in the 1960's, largely because I was a member of the Committee of Concern, which raised several hundred-thousand dollars to rebuild black churches burned by night riders.

The real and true reasons that there is such vigorous opposition to gambling at the beach are many. Some of these are:

—Few, if any, people of any color want thousands of people blocking the streets in front of their homes and threatening the peace and security of their homes, schools and churches. Most of the people pushing for gambling on the beach live some distance away and would not be bothered by these great crowds of people.

—This beach property at the bridge was, before Highway 90 was constructed, owned and lived on by my wife's family and has always been protected by the city as residential.

—Is not the real purpose of zoning to establish industrial parks and commercial enterprises some distance from residential, religious and educational areas?

—Las Vegas required that gambling be distanced from residences, and Orlando required that even Disney World be located 10 to 15 miles from their city. Hancock County has a lot of waters where gambling can be located so there will be no menace to homes, schools and churches.

Are we and our officials in Bay St. Louis less intelligent and caring than those of Las Vegas and Orlando? We pray to God and to them that they will not be!

Frilot exercises patience at Waveland meetings

Dear Editor,

Dismayed by the ineptness of the reporting of the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen of Waveland, I write to set the record straight. I would like to begin by commending Mayor Stella Frilot on her superior display of self-control and patience, under the circumstances.

With a modicum of investigative effort, your reporter would have discovered that, since his election, Alderman Stan Weidman has attempted to monopolize every board meeting with a nauseously detailed examination and accompanying complaint with respect to almost every item of expenditure on the city docket, whether for a sum of $5 or $5,000.

Mayor Frilot has patiently permitted the new alderman to proceed in the obvious hope that more time on the job would produce a more informed and reasonable behavior. His fellow aldermen, however, have been less patient.

It is no secret that Mr. Weidman has designs on the office of mayor and that his conduct is intended to advance that ambition. However, I would suggest that he would do well to reflect on the one fact which was accurately reported in the February 6 article. All of Waveland's elected officials voted contrary to the position advanced by Weidman; and his only support was the negative vote he himself cast.

This citizen endorses the majority, and I suggest that an overwhelming number of my fellow citizens are in total accord.

Very truly yours,
P. J. Cipolla

Gambling passed—quit complaining!

To the Editor:

Those people who are complaining about the gambling realize that, obviously, those who wanted the bill to pass went out and voted for it.

I went to the polls on voting day, and because there was such protests against it, was very surprised to see no one was voting.

I don't know if the gambling bill was passed because more people were for it or because the ones against it did not get out to vote. But, whatever it was, the bill was passed. So quit your complaining.

Bingo consumes more money than gaming ships would

To the Editor:

I have been to Reno, Tahoe and Vegas. We lived near these places for several years, and we would visit these places, enjoy the shows and all of the entertainment; but there is no way anyone can compare those big cities and the casinos and gambling there to having one little ship come to this area to allow people to enjoy a few hours out.

There was little crime in those big cities since anyone could walk to their motels at any hour of the day or night. The casino owners did not allow crime, because they wanted people to return there to visit.

There is more crime in New Orleans than any gambling places I have visited, and they do not gamble, except horse racing and bingo. I would "bet" (and I gamble very little), that more money is spent on bingo in this area than would be spent on a gaming ship.

Give the people some credit for having common sense! We all know, except a few, that we cannot afford to gamble because we need our money to live on.

Let the ship come in at Bayou Caddy, not in Bay St. Louis to disturb the beautiful homes there. Bayou Caddy has land, places to park, and not bother the town's people.

Let the City Fathers tell the ship owners to give people in this area the jobs, so they can get off welfare and take care of themselves; to give us tax payers some relief.

Last Saturday, some friends and I went on the LA Cruise ship. There was good food (no cost), entertainment, many people went up on deck to relax, read, and enjoy the water. Some people gambled—others did not. It was a fun kind of entertainment.

If the gaming ship is not allowed, so be it; but it seems this state needs help. Even though the lottery was not allowed before; even though there is lottery on both sides of Mississippi (and they have no money problems now with school and other needs while this state does), people should check it all out and see if it would help or hurt!

Favre traded to Green Bay Packers

Former Hancock High and USM football standout Brett Favre was traded Tuesday from the Atlanta Falcons to the Green Bay Packers.

Green Bay, which had the No. 5 and No. 17 first-round draft picks in the NFL draft this April, decided to acquire the young quarterback and give the Falcons the No. 17 pick slot.

Packers general manager Ron Wolf explained that in the team's opinion, the chance to acquire Favre easily outweighed the possibility of getting an "unknown quantity" in the draft.

"This also gives us an opportunity to get started earlier on the 1992 season with a young quarterback."

Wolf said Favre will have to earn his place on the team, just as a first-round draft choice would.

During Favre's time at USM, he led the team to two Bowl victories and was named MVP of the East-West Shrine Game in 1991. He set school records for passing yards (8,193), passing attempts (1,234), completions (656), passing percentage (53 percent) and touchdowns (55).

As a Falcon rookie, Favre completed 14 of 34 passes for 160 yards, two touchdowns and one interception during the preseason.

He said his main disappointment with the Falcons was not playing during regular season.

Even though he has to move to Wisconsin and establish fresh working relationships with his new teammates and coaches, Favre said he is looking forward to playing for the Packers, and hopes to obtain a started spot on the team. The team already has veterans Don Majkowski and Mike Tomczak on the quarterback staff.

"It will be a tough three-way battle," Favre said. "I feel if I play well I can be a starter. But that's going to be tough."

Rocks fall short of state title

Special to the Echo
By Dale DeCamp

The 1991-92 St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws ended their season and the hope of a state championship on Friday night with a 4-2 loss to eventual state champion Forest Hill.

The Rocks' season was climaxed by winning the first-ever district title in soccer, winning for the first time in South State playoffs, knocking the defending state champion Clinton, who had a record of 30-0, out of the playoffs, and winning the second annual Catholic Tournament.

The offense for the season was led by sophomore Raul Aragon, senior Jonathan Comperta, senior Michael Hargett, junior Beau Schindler, senior Darrin Rose, senior Kendall Daniels, and freshman Brooks Quinlan.

The defense, which played a very important role for the Rock-A-Chaws this year, was led by junior goal-keeper Brian Gagnon. The defense was also anchored by junior sweeper Scott Emmel, senior fullback James Reso, junior fullbacks Stanley Chapman and Mike Erdoes, and sophomore fullbacks Frank Kerbl and Charles Oliver.

The Rock-A-Chaw soccer team is already looking forward to next year. They will be returning eight starters.

First year head coach Tim Burns, who was selected to coach the all-star soccer team for the South, had this to say about the season: "We had a successful year. We came close to reaching our goal, and we will strive harder next year to reach our goal of a state championship."

CEHS splits playoff wins

The Coast Episcopal boys basketball team edged out Rankin Academy 43-40 in the MPSA South A playoffs last week, but lost to Sharkey Academy 64-51 Monday.

Leading scorer in the CEHS/Rankin County match was Chris Painter with 19 points, followed by Joey Fore with 18, George Hlass with 4 and Tommy Rumrill with 2.

Fore had 12 rebounds and Painter pulled down nine; Adam Farragut contributed six assists.

Against Sharkey, Fore dominated with 32 points and 16 rebounds. Other standouts were George Hlass with 11 points and 18 rebounds; Chris Painter with 6 points; and Adam Farragut with 2 points and five assists.

The loss ends the CEHS season with a 16-10 record.

Hawks bash 'Jackets 74-58 points. Other scorers were Kendall Mitchell with 12 points, Kelton Ladner with 8, Tracy Lee with 7, Jeremy Bennett with 6, Darin Acker with 4 and Julius Jackson with 1.

The game was close until midway through the last quarter. At the end of the third quarter, Hancock had a narrow 49-45 lead after a 3-point goal by Kelton Ladner. Another Ladner 3-pointer bumped the lead to 52-47 with 7:28 left on the clock.

The Hawks hovered around St. Martin center Thomas Moore, cutting him off from his teammates and the goal, and preventing him from taking any passes.

Tight playing, both defensive and offensive, clinched the win for the Hawks.

Hancock was 16-12 for the season as they faced No. 1 Picayune (26-4) Wednesday night at the St. Stanislaus gym.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Homemade Octagon soap has catfish biting the bait

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The word this week is 'meow-fish' in size and quantity in the river systems.

Reports have been coming in that quite a few freshwater meow-fish are being caught in the Pearl River system, the Jourdan River, and in several of the bayous in the county. It seems that the rains and the temperatures we have had in the past few weeks have combined to make the meow-fish extra hungry.

Had one report of at least one catfish that went over 40 pounds, that came out of the Pearl River, in the area of the train trestle.

Most of the meow-fish are being caught on trot lines, and the best catches are coming with night time sets.

Couple of things to remember: Make sure your line is securely attached and well-marked so as to not make a hazard to others who might want to use the same waterway; and good sportsmen don't "pull up" the lines of others to check and see if they have bait on their hooks.

While we are on the subject of bait, I hope you won't think that the turtle has completely lost his marbles if he tells you that the most productive bait for meow-fish in the past week has been Octagon soap.

That's right, Octagon soap on a hook for catfish.

There seems to be several ways to use the soap-as bait for catfish. While most people seem to just cut a one-half inch cube off of a bar and place it directly on their hook, others are making quite a few delicious (the catfish must think so) and meow-pleasing combinations of Octagon soap bait.

The most popular concoction seems to be the liver-soap flavor.

The way that you make this combination is to take a 7-oz. bar of Octagon soap and wrap three or four layers of aluminum foil tightly around the bar. Then take a knife and run it length-wise all the way around the bar so as to cut the foil into two halves. Carefully remove the two halves of foil and set them aside. Then, repeat the process again so that you have a total of four halves of aluminum foil which will serve as molds for step two.

Step two requires that you grind up or mash about four ounces of liver; chicken liver, deer liver or cow liver will all work equally well.

Step three requires that you melt a 7-oz bar of Octagon soap over a low fire. Do not boil the soap, but only heat it enough so as to melt it into a liquid. Once the soap is liquid you add the smashed up liver and mix the mess up well.

Step four. Pour the mess, in equal amounts, into the four aluminum foil molds, that you made earlier, and allow it to cool and re-solidify. You should now be able to cut the liver-soap meow bait in squares that will be about one-half inch thick.

You will find that this bait will last about 12 hours on your hooks.

By the way, this "super clean meow bait" works better than "silver bells" because you won't have to deal with all of the chocolate mess, nor will you be tempted to eat your bait.

All of the fish caught this past week were not catfish as perch are being caught all over the place, wherever you can find fresh water that is not too muddy. This includes Bayou LaCroix and the canals in the Shoreline Park area.

The best perch bait still seems to be grass shrimp.

This week's wonderful wise words: "Super clean meow bait" is not normally recommended for human consumption.

Do meow fish blow bubbles, turtle?

Music: the final frontier?

Diamondhead Performing Arts & Cultural Association to host the maiden voyage of the 'Starship Symphonica'

BY TRACI BONNEY

Music: the final frontier. This is the voyage of the Starship Symphonica, whose mission is to explore new orchestration, to seek out new arrangements and new variations, to boldly go where no musician has gone before.

The Jefferson Performing Arts Society of New Orleans, conducted by Dennis G. Assaf, will present the adventurous Voyage Through the Musical Universe Sunday, Feb. 23, at 4 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club (a.k.a. the Starship Symphonica).

Voyage offers the audience a guided tour of the galaxy with Captain Conductor (Assaf) on the bridge in command of the United Forces of the Galactic Orchestra. A narrator who "beams" aboard the starship will introduce the captain and serve as a tour guide, a science officer of sorts, for the audience.

During this voyage, the Symphonica is scheduled to visit the String Sector, Planet Percussion, the Woodwind Zone and the Brass Belt. A dangerously close brush with an electronic black hole in the Synthesizer System is also a part of this trek.

But hold those sighs of relief. All is not safe yet. Darth Vader (along with his theme from The Empire Strikes Back) will attempt an invasion. His evil purpose is to remove Captain Conductor from control of the Symphonica and plunge the ship's crew (the orchestra) into the Dark Side of ugly music.

Will Vader succeed? Will the Symphonica spiral out of control into a vortex of bad music?

Not while Superman is around! He (and his theme, of course) explodes forth to banish Vader from the Symphonica.

The Symphonica continues its journey, passing Mars as the audience hears Holst's

"Mars-Bringer of War." Haydn's "Creation" and the 4th movement of the Mahler 1st Symphony support the narrator's philosophical and historical commentary about the origins of the universe and man's quest for the stars.

Selections from "Ride of the Valkyries" and "Queen of the Night," a multi-media slide/photo/narration presentation, quotes from Constantine Tcholkovsky, Robert Goddard, John F. Kennedy, Neil Armstrong and Richard Nixon, and "Adagio for Strings" are incorporated into the show.

The Voyage ends with "Also Sprach Zarathustra" (the theme from 2001: A Space Odyssey).

The show was written by Patrick Toebe, the Jefferson Symphony's production coordinator. He is also designing the lights and technical aspects. Robert Hooker will be the narrator. Carlos Pumilia will play Darth Vader; Nancy Assaf will bow as Queen of the Night. Superman is as yet uncast. Tickets are $12.50 each, which includes the first drink. Seating is limited and no tickets will be sold at the door. Call Susan Ritten or Lori Darkow at 255-9188 for more information.

'Shakescenes' returns

New Stage Theatre to present three performances

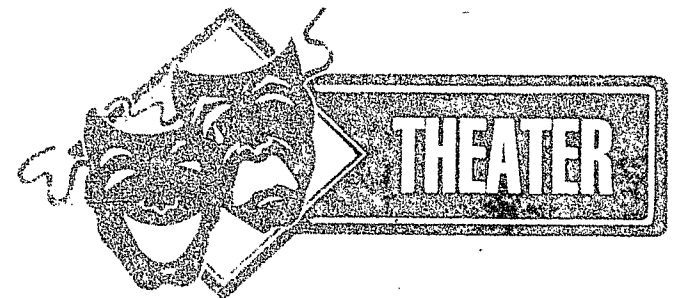

On Wednesday, February 19, Bay High Fine Arts Association in conjunction with the Mississippi Arts Commission will present three performances of New Stage Theatre's "Shakescenes on Tour."

The first two performances will be an in-school production of As You Like It for students in grades 7-12. As You Like It is a part of the New Stage Theatre's Art-in-Education tour which last year played to over 20,000 students in 40 schools throughout Mississippi.

The third performance, a production of "Shakescenes on Tour," will be presented for the general public at 7 Wednesday night at the Bay High auditorium.

This presentation will include scenes from Romeo and Juliet, A Midsummer Night's Dream, Hamlet, Richard III, Macbeth and Twelfth Night. General admission tickets still cost $3 and may be purchased at Jeanne Vance's Hallmark, Ellen Kane Gifts, Anthony's Menswear, The Ballet Place, or at the door on the night of the performance. Doors will open at 6:30.

Proceeds from the evening performance will underwrite the school production so that all students may view it.

Compiled and directed by Francine Thomas, education director at New Stage, As You Like It and "Shakescenes on Tour" will be performed by New Stage's Professional Intern Company members Dana McCain, Randy Goodwin, Cullen Douglas, Sheila Richardson and Andre Golden. Sarah Stevenson is stage manager for the show.

New Stage Theatre is a professional not-for-profit theatre affiliated with Actors' Equity Association. Programs of New Stage are made possible, in part, by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission, the National Endowment for the Arts, The Arts Alliance of Jackson and Hinds County, and individual and corporate contributors.

CEHS names student council, class officers

Coast Episcopal High School students recently elected student council officers and class officers. Rusty Nicaise, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Nicaise of Bay St. Louis, was elected president of the student council.

Newly-elected secretary is Ashley Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Ann Taylor and Joseph Taylor of Pass Christian. Nathan Guice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee Guice III of Biloxi, will serve as treasurer.

According to student council sponsor Nancy Wrightsman elections were held relatively late in the school year so that prospective student council and class leaders could participate in leadership training. Earlier in the year each class, grades 7-12, elected six general class leaders. These students worked closely with Wrightsman and Coast Episcopal headmaster, the Reverend Jon Caridad, developing leadership skills and understanding the responsibilities involved in their positions. They also attended a workshop at Trinity Episcopal School in New Orleans before elections were held.

Guice, Taylor and Nicaise

Representatives are: junior class, Megan Uram; sophomore class, Whitney Eastman and Douglas Grant; freshman class, Sally Cassidy and Marcie Williams; eighth grade, Morey Lefevre and Alan Uram; and seventh grade, Yvonne Salloum and Betsy Goldin.

Senior class officers are: president, Linn Montjoy; vice-president, Dave Hagan; secretary, Chris Painter; and treasurer, Frank Arrington. Class sponsor is Chris Tatum.

Junior class officers are: president, Penny Lambert; vice-president, George Hlass; secretary, Ellen McRaney; and treasurer, Missy Mizell. Class sponsor is Rebecca Boudreaux. Sophomore class officers are: president, Terry Welch; vice-president, Carrie Covode; secretary, Kim Kelly; and treasurer, Miriam Salloum.

Freshman class officers are: president, Marty VanderNoot; vice-president, Caitlin Crounse; secretary, Mariha Herrin; and treasurer, Jesmyn Ward. Class sponsor is Susan Dockens.

Eighth grade officers are: president, Brooke Ballard; vice-president, Barbara Groves; secretary, Gannon Puckett; and treasurer, Sanders Kane. Class sponsor is Lisa Homrig.

Seventh grade officers are: president, Mary Elizabeth Martin; vice-president, Emily Drobny; secretary, Sam Kennerly; and treasurer, Laila Hlass. Class sponsor is Sandra Cazier.

PRCC announces record enrollment

Pearl River Community College announced a record enrollment for spring.

Some 2,887 students have registered, including full-time, part-time, Mississippi and out-of-state students.

Totals do not include industry training, adult literacy, and many other adult enrichment programs offered during the year throughout the six-county supporting district. Total headcount for the year will not be available until June 30.

Post 139 offers USM, PRC scholarships

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion post 139 will again offer their scholarship program. The post will present one scholarship to the University of Southern Mississippi and three scholarships to Pearl River Community College.

Applications are available from Eddie Murtagh. Selection will be made by the colleges involved. However, Post 139 members will be given preference.

Applications will be received at USM until March 1. The applications for Pearl River will be received until April 1.

Delchamps receipts pay off

Frank Ruspoli, assistant manager of the Waveland Delchamps, presents principal Sister Jane Bircher with a check for $1,000 for the $100,000 green register slips collected by St. Clare School. The eighth grade class was on hand to receive the award.

St. Stanislaus observes Catholic Schools Week

St. Stanislaus, using the theme of "Discover Catholic Schools—Discover St. Stanislaus—Discover the World," participated in the national observance of Catholic Schools Week by a school mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

The Reverend Peter Mockler was the celebrant of the liturgy prepared by Mr. John Fitzmorris' ninth grade religion class.

Esteban Hugues, Jose Leos and Francisco Monsech, resident students from Mexico, delivered prayers in Spanish and in English.

Roberto Jimenez, vice-president of the Key Club and a resident student from Costa Rica, stated, "SSC has 26 foreign students representing eight different countries."

During the week the Key Club hosted its third dance for the students of the South Mississippi Retardation Center. This type of outreach by SSC students through the various service clubs at the school enables the students to "discover the world."

The school held its first open house for prospective students and tours of the school, with lunch offered during school hours, for groups from various Catholic grade schools.

Delgado named to dean's list

The Loyola University College of Arts and Sciences announced its 1991 fall dean's list.

Included on the list is Christopher J. Delgado, Bay St. Louis, 3.5.

Four CEHS juniors to attend February Presidential Classroom

Four juniors from Coast Episcopal High School will attend the 1992 Presidential Classroom in Washington, D.C., this month.

Those attending are Nathan Guice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Guice of Biloxi; Ellen McRaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McRaney of Ocean Springs; Missy Mizell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Mizell of Diamondhead; and Megan Uram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Uram of Bay St. Louis.

The Presidential Classroom provides students with a first-hand look at the federal government in action. Students are immersed in an intensive week of workshops and seminars designed to give participants a deeper understanding of how the U.S. Government works, the problems and opportunities of daily governmental operations, and the issues facing America today.

Latino named Century Three winner

Carva Latino of Hancock High School was named one of two winners of the Shell Century Three Leaders $1,500 college scholarship award in Mississippi.

Latino also wins a trip to the Shell Century Three Leaders national conference at colonial Williamsburg, Va. March 21-25, where two students from every state and the District of Columbia will compete for a $10,000 college scholarship.

The scholarship program, now in its 17th year, recognizes 102 high school seniors who demonstrate leadership ability and represent the best and brightest of America's high school students.

State winners are selected based on school and community involvement, leadership skills, academic success and awareness of current events. They must also prepare a "Projection for Innovative Leadership," offering a solution to a critical issue affecting America's future.

Latino is secretary of the student council, president of Future Educators, and vice president of the senior class and the drama club. She is also captain of the varsity cheerleading squad. Latino's community activities include membership in the Baptist youth group, participation in the Adopt-A-Highway litter clean-up, and co-chairmanship of the Angel Tree Project.

"Motivating...students to learn is necessary in solving the problem of illiteracy... That motivation, whether it comes from the home or the school, will insure that the youths of today do become the successful leaders of tomorrow," wrote Latino in her projection for innovative leadership.

HNCE earns Wal-Mart certificate

The Hancock North Central Elementary sixth grade science department received a $100 gift certificate in the "Back to School Spectacular" promotion sponsored by Wal-Mart and the Keebler Company.

The gift certificate was used to purchase supplies that will make science more interesting for the students. Supplies included safety goggles, batteries, flashlights, timers, hot plate, steel wool, mirrors, combs, baking soda and hydrogen peroxide. These supplies will enable the students to conduct many science experiments throughout the year.

JoAnn Ladner, Hancock sixth grade science teacher, receives gift certificate from Johnny Fowler, Wal-Mart assistant manager.
